

P R O V O K E

To design is to stimulate a change, whether this change is in feeling, thought, and/or understanding. Effective design improves the human experience, not only by being visually appealing but by being able to communicate without the use of verbal communication. Good design is a matter of perspective and opinion, within this booklet are examples of designs made with good intentions.

BY MALINA MIKAMI

